

OILED WILDLIFE VOLUNTEER TRAINING

SATURDAY, April 18, 2009 9:00am-4:00pm (8:30am check-in)

Sponsored by NH Department of Environmental Services and NH Department of Fish & Game

Hosted by the Coastal Response Research Center at University of New Hampshire
Presented by Tri-State Bird Rescue & Research, Inc.

Be prepared for the next oil spill involving wildlife.

Volunteers play an integral part in oiled wildlife response. NH Dept. of Environmental Services, NH Dept. of Fish and Game, Tri-State Bird Rescue & Research and Enpro Services are partnering to offer training to participate in this unique aspect of wildlife rehabilitation. Oiled wildlife response is difficult and intense, as well as extremely rewarding. The Oiled Wildlife Volunteer Training workshop will introduce all aspects of oiled wildlife response including safety, medical protocols and cleaning techniques as well as rehabilitation needs of animals both before and after cleaning.

PRE-REGISTRATION IS REQUIRED. Attendance is limited, so we ask that only those with a sincere interest and willingness to make a commitment register. There is no cost for this workshop.

For registration and information please contact Rebecca Dunne at rdunne@tristatebird.org or 302-737-9543 x109

